Child Injury Prevention and the Sustainable Development Goals Safety 2018 Pre-Conference

WHAT Join us for a daylong pre-conference discussing how the United Nation's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) provide new opportunities for child injury prevention.

WHO Co-hosted by Safe Kids Worldwide (SKW), the International Society for Child and Adolescent Injury Prevention (ISCAIP) and the Child Injury Prevention Alliance (CIPA)

WHEN Sunday, November 4, 2018 from 8:30 am – 5:00 pm

WHERE Hilton Sukhumvit Bangkok, 11 Sukhumvit Soi 24, Khlong Ton, Bangkok, Thailand

WHY It has been 10 years since the World Health Organization published the “World Report on Child Injury Prevention.” And while the global health community has made great progress in advancing child safety, we still have work to do. The SDGs provide a unique opportunity for child injury prevention by creating new opportunities to encourage a human rights approach to injury prevention and to better integrate it into the broader 2030 Agenda. This pre-conference will highlight aspects of this unique opportunity for child injury experts interested in drowning prevention and pedestrian safety including:

- identifying how child injury prevention can align with the SDGs,
- sharing new developments to strengthen current programs and advocacy,
- providing an opportunity to network with global child injury prevention stakeholders and
- challenging participants to explore how they can utilize what they learn to strengthen child injury prevention efforts in their own communities.

ON THE AGENDA We have convened a group of inspiring speakers to discuss opportunities the SDGs present for two important injury topics:

Child Drowning Prevention

Rebecca Sindall, Nile Swimmers, UK
Gemma May, Royal National Lifeboat Institution (RNLI), UK
Qingfeng Li, Johns Hopkins International Injury Research Unit, USA

Child Pedestrian Safety

Saul Billingsley, FIA Foundation / Child Health Initiative, UK
Mirjam Sidik, AIP Foundation, Vietnam
Monica Cui, Safe Kids China, China
